

The Freelance GP you are seeing today is

Dr Liz Hughes

BM DCH DRCOG MRCGP

I qualified from Southampton University Medical School in 1999. I worked in hospital medicine for 4 years, this included experience in accident and emergency, adult and children's medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynaecology and palliative care. I did my GP training in Alton, Hampshire and continued to work there for a further 4 years as a salaried doctor. I am now working as a freelance GP in Hampshire/Surrey.

My special interests include children's health, women's health and palliative care.

I enjoy a busy home life with my husband and three children. We do a variety of sports as a family including tennis, swimming, riding and most recently skiing. I particularly love escaping from them all on a horse for a brief bit of quiet.
